The supreme judges include Carl Hubbell, head of the farm system; Hank DeBerry, senior scout, and

THE POWERHOUSE

by JIMMY POWERS

Miami Beach, Fla., March 5.—It was the cocktail hour and three men from three different fields of sport were sitting in front of a cabana facing the Atlantic. The air temperature was 80, the water was 76. The sun blazed in a clear blue tropical sky. The three men were undecided over just what to order. Forty-eight razor-keen amateurs battled in 24 bouts at Ridgewood Grove, Brooklyn, last night as the second round of the 1946 Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions unfolded before another capacity crowd. From this field of fistic champions, each a titlist crowned in his own sector of the Eastern Seaboard, 32 were to emerge in the ring at Madison Square Garden tonight to decide who was to wear the royal purple of eastern champion and thus earn a berth on the Inter-City team.

The program last night included all weights from flies through middleweights, the four heavyweights and four lightheavies having earned spots in the Garden semifinals by victories Monday night.

One set of battlers in particular was being watched by the ringwise, the five-man squad from Miami, always strong contenders in the Tournament of Champions over the years. The Miami maul-
